“Love one another just as I have loved you.”

These words are so familiar to us. Perhaps this new commandment is our raison d'être, our daily aspiration. We may even have the T-shirt. Surely Jesus' command to love one another was nothing new for the disciples and those of their time. The commandment is well known in the Old Testament: 'Love God with your whole heart and your neighbour as yourself.' So what is new?.... "Love as I have loved you." When we reflect on these words, what are our thought processes? Do we look for various Scripture references which speak of God's love for us and in them find a God who loves unconditionally, a God whose love is indiscriminate, a God who is loving, caring, forgiving, compassionate, understanding and self-sacrificing. We find so many qualities of love for us to emulate. We are constantly looking for ways in which we can do this, ways in which we can show that we love as Jesus loved. But do we have the correct starting point? We are familiar with the story of the traveller who stopped to ask someone the directions to his destination. "If I were you, I wouldn't start from here," was the reply. Jesus' starting point was his awareness that "I am in the Father and the Father is in me." (John 14:11)

'How we embark on our journey of loving others is rooted in our personal experience of who we are. Love is not something we decide to do now and then. Love is who we are. We are created in the image of God and God is love. We were created by a loving God to be love in the world. When we get the "who" right and realise that who I am is love, then we will do what we came to do: Love God and love all that God has created. [1]

'Jesus commandment to us is not that we should wear ourselves out, trying to conjure love from our own easily depleted resources. Rather, it's that we're invited to abide in the holy place where all love originates. We can make our home in Jesus' love. Our love is not our own; it is God's, and God our source is without limit, without end.

"Love one another as I have loved you." For our own sakes. And for the world's.' [2]

CAFOD

The world produces over 4 billion tonnes of food but a third is wasted. At the same time over 800 million people go hungry each day. CAFOD's new campaign is called Fix the Food System. See www.cafod.org.uk/food for more information, including an invitation for parish groups to learn about the impact of our food with our Fix the Food System: a 7-station journey resource.
