Advent Longing

'Advent celebrates human yearning. There is an Advent spirit in the heart of every human person. It is one of longing, of yearning for a fulfilment that somehow lies beyond us. It flows from our deeply rooted human incompleteness. St. Augustine uttered the classic description of this spirit: "You made us for yourself, O Lord, and our hearts are restless until they rest in you." All of us long for something more as we make our pilgrim way. When people focus on power, pleasure, fame, or financial prosperity, they often find themselves moving aimlessly, without fulfilment.' [1] 'Advent is about trying to make sense of that intense and disturbing imperative for a completeness that always eludes us, that burns in our flesh and never leaves us alone.

Just as it is the task of the water-diviner to 'divine' the presence of the sweetest water deep down in the earth, so it is the task of spiritual leaders to enable us to 'divine' our divinity, to find the hidden well of mystery within us. The liturgy of the Christian Church responds to this mystery of our inner truth, but also wakens us to the danger of settling prematurely for lesser unions, of mistaking false gods for God. Our weakness lies in the setting up of the shop of our lives at the wrong address, in misreading 'true north' in the compass of our brief existence on this earth. Advent reminds us of, and returns us to our true roots, to God's first dream for us.' [2]

Whenever we experience the wonder of the hidden well of mystery within us, we will long to do all we can to 'stay awake', to nourish an awareness that God is present to us in every moment of our lives, in all the circumstances of our lives.

*Blessed be the longing that brought you here
And quickens your soul with wonder.*

*May you have the courage to listen to the voice of desire
That disturbs you when you have settled for something safe.*

*May you have the wisdom to enter generously into your own unease
To discover the new direction your longing wants you to take. [3]*
